

Visitors to Bellevue Downtown Park next month will have the opportunity to learn about the City's plan to support communications through alternative means if traditional systems fail during an emergency.

The Eastside Amateur Radio Support (EARS) group is participating in Field Day on Saturday, June 28th, joining thousands of other Amateur Radio operators from the U.S. and Canada in demonstrating their emergency capabilities and sharing their knowledge of emergency communications with eastside citizens.

Field Day is a great opportunity for individuals to:

- Learn about the specifics of amateur radio and its role in emergency response.
- Take an exclusive tour of Bellevue's Communications Vehicle.
- Converse with other amateur radio operators around the world.
- Gain insight on how to partner with the City of Bellevue in its journey towards creating a more resilient city.

Field Day activities will take place on June 28th from 10am to sunset in Bellevue Park.
